INTERDISCIPLINARY PERSPECTIVES ON INTERNATIONAL LAW AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The State of the Art

Interdisciplinary Perspectives on International Law and International Relations: The State of the Art brings together the most influential contemporary writers in the fields of international law and international relations to take stock of what we know about the making, interpretation, and enforcement of international law. The contributions to this volume critically explore what recent interdisciplinary work reveals about the design and workings of international institutions, the various roles played by international and domestic courts, and the factors that enhance compliance with international law. The volume also explores how interdisciplinary work has advanced theoretical understandings of the causes and consequences of the increased legalization of international affairs.

Jeffrey L. Dunoff is the Laura H. Carnell Professor of Law at Temple University Beasley School of Law, where he directs the Institute for International Law and Public Policy. Dunoff has previously served as the Nomura Visiting Professor at Harvard Law School, as a senior visiting research scholar and a visiting professor at Princeton University, and as a visiting Fellow at the Lauterpacht Research Centre for International Law at Cambridge University. His scholarship focuses on public international law; international regulatory regimes; and interdisciplinary approaches to international law. He is co-author (with Steven Ratner and David Wippman) of a leading textbook, International Law: Actors, Norms, Process, and his writings have appeared in the American Journal of International Law, European Journal of International Law, Journal of International Economic Law, and other publications.

Mark A. Pollack is professor of Political Science and Jean Monnet Chair ad personam at Temple University. He previously served as associate professor at the University of Wisconsin–Madison and as visiting professor at the European University Institute in Florence, Italy. His research focuses on the role of international institutions and international law in regional and global governance, with specific projects examining the delegation of powers to international organizations, institutions and policy-making in the European Union, and the global regulation of genetically modified foods. Pollack is the author of The Engines of European Integration: Delegation, Agency, and Agenda Setting in the EU and co-author (with Gregory C. Shaffer) of When Cooperation Fails: The Law and Politics of Genetically Modified Foods. He is also co-editor of seven books, as well as many articles and book chapters.

Acknowledgments

This volume reflects the contributions and advice of many colleagues and friends who share our interest in understanding the role of international law in international relations. We have been fortunate to work with an extraordinary group of scholars, and to have enjoyed significant support from the university at which we work.

We were extremely fortunate to receive a major grant to support interdisciplinary research from the Temple University Office of the Provost. This support enabled us to host two workshops at Temple University in spring 2011. These workshops afforded an opportunity for authors to present their papers and receive sustained feedback from one another, as well as from an outstanding group of expert commentators, including Paul Berman, Harlan Cohen, John Crook, Lori Damrosch, Meg deGuzman, Andrew Guzman, Oona Hathaway, Duncan Hollis, Ian Hurd, Leslie Johns, Claire Kelly, Robert Keohane, Peter Lindseth, Ralf Michaels, Jide Nzelibe, Tonya Putnam, Jaya Ramji-Nogales, Cesare Romano, Beth Simmons, and Pierre-Hugues Verdier. We thank each of these individuals for their thoughtful comments and many constructive suggestions.

We are also grateful to Temple Law School, and particularly to Dean JoAnne Epps, for supporting this project. We also wish to thank Debbie Feldman, Dorothy Lee, Dimitri Ferrell, and Joel Houkom for their efforts in ensuring the success of the workshops. We also thank Temple law students Alex Varghese and Keith Greenwald and Temple political science students Gorana Draguljic and Danielle Scherer for their useful research, and Erica Maier, Joel Houkom and Shannon Crocker for their assistance with the preparation of the volume.

Thanks are also due to John Berger, Rebecca McCary, and the editorial team at Cambridge University Press for their support and guidance through the editorial and publishing processes.

Finally, and most important, we thank our families – Theresa, Elizabeth, and Joel, and Rita, Cameron, and Fiona – for their unstinting support. This book is dedicated to them.
