
CONTENTS

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	xi
Table of Cases	xix
Table of Statutes and Legal Material	xxiii
1 Introduction	1
Feminist debates	7
The scheme of this book	10
2 Law in Africa	13
Creating law(s) and legal systems	14
Creating customary law	17
Customary law in post-colonial states	19
Choice of law dilemmas	21
Moving towards guaranteeing women's rights: the impact of liberation struggles	25
Equality	27
Constitutional protection of women's rights	33
Conclusion	40
3 Human Rights in Africa	41
Feminist analysis of international law	42
The African perspective	44
Engaging with international human rights on the African continent	45
Human rights in the African system	47
Sub-regional initiatives	51
CEDAW in Africa	57
Protocol to the African Charter on Human and People's Rights on the Rights of Women—history and drafting	66
Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa 2003—overview	79
Conclusion	82
4 Family Law, Gender Equality and Human Rights	85
Impact of human rights	87
Feminist perspectives on family	90
North Africa	93
West Africa	97
East Africa	100

Southern Africa	103
Bridewealth	108
Relationships in the shadow of law	112
Pluralism and the internal conflicts between marriage systems	114
Pluralism and polygyny	116
Other types of marriage arrangements	119
Early marriage	121
Divorce	124
Property distribution on divorce	129
Maintenance after divorce	136
Children	138
Nationality	144
Death	148
Conclusion	157
5 Violence against Women and Reproductive Rights	159
Defining the problem	160
International developments around violence against women	161
National developments and constraints	165
Economic violence	169
Sexual violence against women	170
Non-consensual sex in marriage	172
Sexual violence against young women and girls	176
Issues of access to justice	179
Strategies for combating violence against women	180
Reproductive rights	181
Health as a human right	200
Strategies to protect women's reproductive rights	205
Conclusion	206
6 Female Genital Cutting, Human Rights and National Legislation	207
Introduction	207
Constructing an understanding of the practice	208
Reasons given for the practice	210
Feminist contestations over meaning and strategies around FGC	212
The human rights framework	218
Children's rights	225
Efficacy of the human rights approach	229
National legislation	230
Colonial initiatives	230
Post-independence laws on FGM	231
Advantages of using law to tackle FGC	235
Disadvantages of using law to tackle FGC	237
The role of civil society organisations in eradicating FGC	239
Select case studies	239
Conclusion	245

Contents

xvii

7 Culture, Development and Participation	247
The monolith—‘culture’	248
Regional considerations of ‘culture’	250
The culture v human rights industry	253
The joys of listening and talking to each other—obtaining normative consensus through cross-cultural dialogue	259
Development	263
International aid policy	267
Women in the development process: transformations	269
Gender and poverty	274
Political participation	279
‘Civil society’ and non-governmental organisations	285
Conclusion	294
8 Conclusion	297
Overview of the development of human rights	298
The weak African state	299
Culture	304
Democratising the family	306
Expanding the feminist project in Africa	309
Appendix A: Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples’ Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa	311
Appendix B: Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women 1979	325
Bibliography	337
Index	393