

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Table of Cases	xv
Table of International Treaties, Conventions and other Legal Instruments	xviii
Table of General Assembly Resolutions	xxiii
Introduction	1
Globalisation and the Democratic Deficit	2
The Democratic Legitimacy of International Law	11
The Structure of the Book	15
1 The Democratic Deficit in Global Governance	22
The 'Vertical' Complaint	23
The 'Horizontal' Complaint	28
The 'Ideological' Complaint	31
The Democratisation of Global Governance	33
Reaffirming Sovereignty	34
A Global Democratic State	43
A Global Democratic Federation	47
A Democratic Peace	50
Perpetual Peace	51
A Law of Peoples	54
Cosmopolitan Democratic Law	60
Democratising International Institutions	64
International Parliamentary Assemblies	65
A UN Parliamentary Assembly	67
The Accountability Deficit	71
The Role of Experts	72
The Accountability of International Organisations	79
Global Discourses: the Role of International Civil Society	83
Conclusion	89
2 Democracy Within and Beyond the State	92
International Law and the Democratic Deficit	94
Politically Decidable Issues	98
Deliberative Democracy	102
Deliberative Majorities	106
Deliberative Politics	108
Human Rights in a Democracy	109
The Parliamentary Principle of Democracy	112

Challenging Democratic Truths: the Role of Judicial Review	113
Deliberative Democracy Beyond the State	115
Conclusion	121
3 The State as (Democratic) Self-Legislator	123
The Sovereign State	124
The State as Self-Legislator	128
Contractual Autonomy	133
Law-Making Treaties	135
Deliberative Diplomacy	138
The Indeterminacy of International Law Obligations	145
The Problem of Customary International Law	150
The Role of the International Law Profession	152
A Modern Form of Customary International Law	154
General Principles of Law	155
The Writings of Publicists and Judgments of Courts	157
The Writings of Publicists	157
The Judgments of Courts	158
Conclusion	161
4 The Constitutionalisation of International Law	163
From Contract to Governance	164
Community Interests and Constitutionalisation	171
The Constitutionalisation of International Law	175
The Normative Hierarchy of International Law	176
Article 103, Charter of the United Nations	179
The International Constitution	182
The International Constitutional Order	187
Liberal Democratic Values in International Law	193
Rule of Law	194
International Human Rights Law	198
Human Rights in the United Nations System	202
The Construction of the Liberal State	207
Conclusion	210
5 Democracy in International Law	211
Democracy in International Law	212
Democratic Self-Determination	213
A (Human) Right to Democracy	219
Democracy in the Practice of States	222
Membership of International Organisations	223
Democracy in the International Law Order	228

Democratic Regime Change in International Law	231
Operation Enduring Freedom (Afghanistan)	235
Operation Iraqi Freedom	237
Conclusion	245
6 International Governance by Non-State Actors	247
Global Governance	249
International 'Soft' Law	253
Non-State Actors as Law-Makers	256
The UN Security Council	257
'Networks' of Officials: Basel Committee on Banking Standards	264
Public-Private Partnerships: World Commission on Dams	267
Private International Governance Schemes	269
Governance by Non-State Actors	271
7 A Concept of (International) Law	277
The Concept of (State) Law	277
Autopoiesis: Law as a Closed System of Communication	280
Global Bukowina	286
The Fragmentation of International Law	289
Constitutionalisation Beyond the State	292
The Idea of Law	296
The Idea of Authority	300
Democracy and the Concept of Authority	303
A Revised Concept of Law	309
8 Deliberative Democracy Beyond the State	311
The Idea of Constituent Power	312
Democracy and the Exercise of Political Authority	315
Those 'Affected'/'Subjected'	322
The Political Concept of Global Justice	327
Conclusion	331
9 Democracy in Conditions of Global Legal Pluralism	334
Pluralism in Global Governance	335
Normative Pluralism	338
What is Legal Pluralism?	341
Global Legal Pluralism	343
Rethinking Global Legal Pluralism	345
State Law and International Law	350
Relationship Between Democracy and International Law	360
The Limits of International Law	361
Democracy-Enhancing International Law	363

xiv Contents

Constitutional Self-Limitation	365
International Law as a Pre-Commitment Device	368
A Contestable International Rule of Law	369
Conclusion	371
Conclusion: Democracy and the Public International Lawyer	377
Selected Bibliography	383
Index	395